

M'NAMARAS CONFESS TO DYNAMITING TIMES BUILDING AND WRECKING THE GREAT LLEWELLYN IRON WORKS PLANT

Court Has Set Tuesday for the Time of Sentencing Brothers Who Will be Shown Clemency

JAMES B. WILL BE GIVEN LIFE, JOHN J. 14 YEARS

Former Admits Dynamiting Which Caused the Death of 21 People---Prisoner's Attorney Advised Confession to Save Them From the Gallows ---Stone Wall Evidence Had Been Secured Against Men.

Los Angeles, Dec. 2.—Startling as was the sudden confession of guilt yesterday on the part of John J. and James B. McNamara, both high labor officials, the one causing the Llewellyn Iron Works explosion and the other the Los Angeles Times disaster that cost 21 lives, more amazing to the people today was the announcement that big business men of Los Angeles had brought about the confession.

Just the manner in which the confession was brought about is not known but heavy pressure was brought to bear to prevent the prolonging of the case which meant interminable warfare with danger to the city's welfare. Clarence Darrow, chief counsel for the defense reiterated today that the compromise was best for all concerned.

Members of the District Attorney's office are of the opinion the defense was forced to lay down its arms not only on account of the evidence against them, but on account of effecting a conviction in the Franklin bribery case it would have had a bad effect on the chances of the men on trial.

"It was never settled until it happened," said the district attorney, speaking of the compromise. "We suspected it was coming out, after giving them our ultimatum."

It is said that James B. McNamara was ready to plead guilty earlier but decided to clear his brother of all charges. This the prosecution would not permit, but agreed to recommend mercy. In arguing for James B. McNamara counsel showed him that to stand trial alone in an endeavor to clear his brother would not save his brother and to plead guilty would be easier.

Attorney Scott for the defense said today that it was to save his brother's life that John J. McNamara pleaded guilty to the minor charges of the iron works.

That other persons interested in dynamite conspiracies may be arrested in San Francisco, Indianapolis and other places and that the McNamaras will be called upon to testify was a report current here today.

The Los Angeles Central Labor Council says that it "believed in the innocence of all men until proven guilty and we came to the aid of the accused men with moral and financial support. Upon the guilt of the accused persons being established the council insists upon a rigid enforcement of the law."

The prosecutor announced his intention of pushing the Franklin bribery case to the limit.

Los Angeles, Dec. 2.—James B. McNamara pleaded guilty of murder in the first degree in Judge Bordwell's court yesterday afternoon. His brother, John J. McNamara, secretary of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, entered a plea of guilty to having dynamited the Llewellyn Iron Works in Los Angeles on Christmas Day, 1910.

James B. McNamara's confession clears up absolutely the tragedy of the explosion and fire which at 1:07 o'clock on the morning of Oct. 1, 1910, wrecked the plant of the Los Angeles Times at First and Broadway, and caused the death of 21 persons. For 19 of these deaths the McNamara brothers were indicted and J.B. McNamara was on trial specifically for the murder of Charles J. Huggerty, a machinist, whose body was found nearer than that of any other to the spot where the dynamite was supposed to have been placed.

Both sentences were set for Dec. 5, when it is expected District Attorney John D. Fredericks will ask for life imprisonment for James B. McNamara, the confessed murderer, and probably 14 years for his brother. The men's lives are considered saved. The great contention that the Los Angeles Times was not dynamited is dead beyond all resurrection or argument.

HOW THE NEWS IS RECEIVED IN LEADING CITIES

New York, Dec. 2.—Until they received the papers this morning labor leaders universally branded as false the story of the McNamara brothers having confessed. Some still declare that the whole thing is a "frameup" which they cannot explain now but will undertake to do so later. The mass meeting called for December 2 to profess the innocence of the brothers has been abandoned. In all the New York defense committees collected $5,000. President Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, paced the floor of the Pennsylvania railroad station all last night waving his arms and struggling for words to express his astonishment and indignation. He left today for Troy.

Denver, Dec. 2.—Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, who, with William D. Haywood and John A. Pettibone were arrested in connection with the murder of former Governor Steiengenberg five years ago, declared today the confession of the McNamaras furnished capital with a club which it would not be slow to use against organized labor. "For that reason no matter how guilty I might have been, I never would have confessed," said Moyer.

New York, Dec. 2.—"The fight has

PERSONAL VINDICATION. W. J. BURNS, DECLARES.

Chicago, Dec. 2.—"I consider the outcome a great personal vindication for me," said Wm. J. Burns here when told by the Associated Press of the sensational developments in the McNamara case at Los Angeles. "Especially," he added, "after ten men occupying such exalted positions as Samuel Gompers, and others repeatedly charged me with planting the dynamite at Los Angeles. Following them every Socialist paper in the country and every labor paper has so often printed stories of frame-ups in the case that some good people were beginning to think that the prosecution was not on the square. "I had absolutely no personal feeling against either defendant. I was employed by the mayor of Los Angeles to investigate this case. My sole purpose was to make a thorough inquiry. The evidence has been just what I said it was—overwhelming."

only just begun. What we want is to find out who are the men behind the McNamaras and this we propose to do." This statement was made today by Walter Drew, chief counsel for the National Employers association which employed Burns to investigate the Los Angeles dynamiting case. Drew declared that the brothers received large sums for their crimes. Special emphasis was laid on the investigation now on at Indianapolis by Drew. "This he hopes will ultimately lead to the identity of the men higher up becoming known."

Chicago, Dec. 2.—Further arrests in the Los Angeles Times dynamiting may come at any time, according to William J. Burns, the detective. "There are others in this case just as guilty as the McNamaras," said Burns. "Of these we will have Dave Kaplan and M. A. Schmidt under arrest soon, along with several others. Other prominent laboring men are mixed up in this deal and I expect to keep working until the last one has been brought to justice. This is not a fight against organized labor but against the worst side of unionism and that part that should be removed by the better element."

Cincinnati, Dec. 2.—The sudden pleas of guilty entered by the McNamaras.

DYNAMITING PROBE WILL BE CONTINUED.

Indianapolis, Dec. 2.—"The investigation of the federal government here into the dynamiting cases covers a much wider scope than the cases at Los Angeles," said United States District Attorney Charles W. Miller tonight. "The pleas of the McNamara brothers will not interrupt the government's investigation."

GOMERS DECLARES HE WAS IMPOSED UPON.

New York, Dec. 2.—"I am astounded; my credulity has been imposed upon. It is as a bolt out of a clear sky." The exclamations were those of Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, when advised of the plea guilty in the McNamara cases. "I had absolutely no personal feeling against either defendant. I was employed by the mayor of Los Angeles to investigate this case. My sole purpose was to make a thorough inquiry. The evidence has been just what I said it was—overwhelming."

Last night, as the two brothers sat together in the county jail, refusing to see anyone or make any statement, an interest second only to the occurrence itself hung about the question with reference to James B. McNamara—"Why did he confess?" To this opposing counsel gave the same answer.

"He confessed because he was guilty, and that's all there is to it," declared District Attorney Fredericks. "He was counseled to confess because that was the best thing he could do in the opinion of counsel," said Attorney Clarence S. Darrow, chief of counsel. "I will say now that there was no other reason or motive in it. I've studied this case for months. It presented a stone wall."

Darrow's statement was made as looking squarely in the face of the charges that the recent arrest of Burt H. Franklin, an investigator employed by the defense, and two others with him, might have precipitated a situation untenable save by confession of the prisoner. "Negotiations have been on for weeks," asserted Darrow, and this was corroborated by District Attorney Fredericks. "We expected at one time that Jim would confess last night."

EXCITEMENT INTENSE.

Tehran, Dec. 2.—(Bulletin)—The excitement of the populace at the news of the Russian advance on the capital is intense. The streets are filled with crowds. The walls of the city are lit with lanterns and covered with red placards proclaiming "death of independence."

TWO MORE ASSASSINATED.

Tehran, Persia, Dec. 2.—Two more Persian politicians were assassinated today. Mohad Teyr, a prominent reactionary was killed in the capital this morning. Prince Fumun Firma, former minister of justice and governor of a province, was assassinated at Kaspin 90 miles northwest of here.

TEN BURIED IN BARNESVILLE MINE CAVE-IN

A fall of slate in the Glen mine of the Belmont Coal Company at Glencoe, just east of Barnesville, at 9:30 o'clock, caught ten men in the room where the slate fell. The first report received was that all the men were dead. A large number of men at once set to work clearing away the debris, and all the men were taken out alive. Three of the men, however, were seriously injured and were rushed to the Wheeling, W. Va., hospital where they are being cared for.

LA FOLLETTE LEADERS ARE GETTING BUSY

Columbus, Dec. 2.—Several conferences were held here today by Secretary John J. Fackler of the Ohio Progressive League and LaFollette leaders from various parts of the state and the reports made at headquarters here are to organize the state against Taft. Senator Moses E. Clapp stopped at the League house for two hours while enroute from Akron to Dayton, where a league was organized today. Reports are that the LaFollette sentiment is growing throughout the state.

GIRL DEAD AS RESULT OF JOY RIDE WHEN AUTO PLUNGED INTO CANAL

Big Stoddard-Dayton Touring Car Turns Turtle Alighting on Wheels, Four Occupants Taking Icy Bath

ADA WILLIAMS DIED AT THE CITY HOSPITAL

Had Probably Been Injured Internally---Cliff Grimm Jumped Into Canal and Assisted in Work of Rescue---B. & O. Wreck Train Called Into Requisition to Pull Out Car.

Rounding the sharp turn at Franklin and Canal streets at the Jackson Hotel Friday night under high speed, the big Stoddard-Dayton touring car owned by A. H. Heisey and driven by Mr. Heisey's chauffeur, Orle W. Harrington, plunged over the canal bank, turning a complete somersault and landed upright in four feet of water in the canal bed.

Ada Williams, aged about 21 years, of Atlanta, Ga., visiting in Newark from Zanesville, where she resides, received injuries in the accident which caused her death nearly two hours later at the city hospital.

The accident occurred at 5:45 o'clock and it is regarded as miraculous that but one of the four persons in the car was seriously injured. The fact that it occurred after the evening train at the B. & O. station had arrived probably saved others from injury.

As it was, Harrington and Miss Jean Kelley were both more or less bruised and scratched by the fall and Harrington's male companion, as far as is known, escaped practically without a scratch.

The accident was the result of a joy ride. The car was occupied at the time by four people, two men and two women. Orle Harrington, W. E. Davis, Ada Williams and Jean Kelley. The latter came to Newark recently from Elkhart.

Information regarding the movements of the party before the accident is difficult to obtain. At the hour of the accident, the big car whizzed past the door of the Jackson Hotel which fronts towards the B. and O. station. Clerk Milton M. Taylor, who was on duty at the desk, states that he saw the machine pass and at the time thought the rate of speed was too great to make a safe turn.

Rolla Stewart, who drives a baggage wagon and mail transfer wagon was approaching the station on Canal street and was probably the only eye witness to the accident. It is his opinion that the speed of the car was such that it could not have gained such momentum by starting opposite the station.

Stewart's statement of the accident is graphic. He says he was driving to the station with a load of baggage for an evening train. As he approached the turn in Canal street, the big machine suddenly whirled around the corner from Franklin street.

Stewart immediately realized the driver's peril and called to him to put on the brakes. It is Stewart's belief that the driver did not hear him as the engine of the machine was in motion and probably drowned the sound of his voice.

Almost immediately after he called to the driver the wheels of the machine struck the curb at the edge of the canal bank, the big car hesitated an instant and then toppled over into the canal.

The machine top was crushed as it rolled down the rocky bank and the car itself lighted on its wheels in the water in the middle of the canal. A thin coating of ice covered the surface of the water. This was broken and floated about the partly submerged car.

The driver of the baggage wagon was almost paralyzed with fright, but immediately called to Station Master Charles Long that an automobile had plunged into the canal. Mr. Long had just come from his office to receive baggage. It was a moment or two before he could learn from the driver where the accident occurred. It was his understanding that the car took the plunge into the canal near the freight station.

In the meantime, Yard Master Clifford Grimm, who heard the crash, rushed from Mr. Long's office, thinking that a yard engine had crashed into the string of cars on the north side of the canal, he started on a run in that direction. He was soon at the point where the car toppled over the bank and immediately realized what had happened.

Chauffeur Harrington and Davis were at that time on the bank with the Kelley girl. Harrington had in his hands a part of the broken steering gear. He called to Mr. Grimm and told him that there was another girl in the car whom Harrington and his companion could not release.

Mr. Grimm jumped down the bank and waded through the icy water to the machine. All the curtains on the tonneau were firmly fastened and the top was crushed down close to the body of the machine.

The broken top and the curtains resisted Mr. Grimm's efforts to make an opening from which to rescue the pinioned woman inside. He opened the tonneau door and reached in and groped about in the water for the unconscious form of Miss Williams.

He finally seized her arm and was compelled to drag her through the water to get her from the perilous position she occupied. Mr. Grimm called for help while trying to rescue the woman but men on the bank failing to respond, Mr. Long was hurrying from the station platform to the canal bank and reached that point as Mr. Grimm brought the woman out.

All this consumed less time than it takes to tell it and Miss Williams could not have been in the machine more than two or three moments. However she was in an unconscious condition when brought out of the water and willing hands helped lift her from the canal bank to the street. She was carried into the lobby of the Jackson Hotel where bystanders worked on her for some time. Among

SECOND ELECTION

In Perry County Under the Rose Law Be Held Today.

New Lexington, O., Dec. 1.—A strenuous campaign which has been waged throughout Perry County for the past month came to a close last night. The county will vote today in a second election under the Rose law.

Perry County voted dry three years ago by a majority of 893 votes.

EXTRA EDITION GAVE THE NEWS

The first news of the sensational action taken in the McNamara case came to Newark in an Associate at Los Angeles, California, Friday, Press dispatch to the Advocate, at 5 p. m., announcing that the McNamara brothers had pleaded guilty. Fifteen minutes later an extra edition of the Advocate was on the streets and in the news stands.

WHAT IS IT?

Answer to Friday's puzzle--School.

ARMY AVIATION SCHOOL TO BE ENLARGED IF PRESENT PLANS ARE CARRIED OUT

Washington, D. C., Dec. 2.—College Park, the pretty but lonely little suburb of Washington, where the Army aviation school has been busy during the days of Indian summer, is draped in mourning.

The pretty girls who have been taking such a deep interest, of a purely scientific character, no doubt, in aviation, are disconsolate.

In a Southern city, public interest in aviation has suddenly sprung to fever heat, and the papers are eagerly scanned every day for the latest news of the sons of Mars who tempt fate by trying, like the giant told of in mythology, to fly in the face of the sun. At least, they seem at times to be going up to the very ultimate limit that their planes and engines will take them, and it fills the sweet young things, who motor and walk and drive to the aviation field, with thrills and tremors lest something dreadful may occur. It's all the worse, too, that only two of the officers are married. The other are totally unprotected; but they could have tender official guardians almost at a moment's notice if they would but say the word.

As a matter of fact, nothing dreadful ever does occur out at the Army aviation school. The Army, indeed, has been peculiarly fortunate and it seems as if it were safer to ride the gale in a flying machine than to walk the earth and chance various and divers sorts of misadventures.

Although the War Department has been unsuccessful in getting more officers for this work, it is very much interested in this new branch of the service, and General Wood is planning to enlarge the school. One new plane has been ordered and there is a prospect that half a dozen officers, now on special detail, may be assigned to this work after the first of the year.

The College Park aviation field, easily accessible by way of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, has been popular with the public ever since Captain Chandler and his venturesome young men have been located there. Some days there have been hundreds of curious persons ranged along Hangar Row. They would crowd around the machines and get in the way of the aviators, and ply the good-natured officers with questions until sometimes, it is to be feared, they were almost a nuisance. They had about a million questions which they asked over and over, in varied forms. Now that the camp is to assume greater activity in a warmer climate the old, time-worn, threadbare questions will be repeated a few thousand times more, and the officers will blandly reply to them without so much as intimating that they ever heard them asked before. Here are some of the stock queries by pretty girls and wise old men:

"Why is that flying machine?"

"Isn't he too cute?"

"What makes it go?"

"That isn't the engine is it? That?"

"Aren't they young?"

"Good-looking, don't you think?"

"Ain't it cute?"

"Which, him?"

"No, goosie, he heard you."

"What a funny little thing; does it really fly?"

"Awfully dangerous, and quite drawfy, I fawncy."

"Did you ever fall out of it?"

"What holds you in?"

"What fuel do you use to produce the necessary power?" (This from a serious looking man.)

"How many revolutions do the propellers make?" (This also by a man of wise aspect.)

"Is it made of aluminum?"

(Note—The Army machines are painted with aluminum paint, giving them a silvery appearance.)

"Do you ever feel frightened when you go up in one?"

"What would you do if you fell?"

"Will you take me up? I should love to fly."

"How do you flap the wings?"

"Why do they all bundle up that way?"

"Oh, Captain, it makes me so nervous."

"What speed can you make?"

"Do you prefer the Wright or Curtiss machine?"

"Oh, oh! What's he coming down for?"

There are but a few. The aviators can answer them now without blinking, even to the one—What would you do if you fell out? Perhaps at the winter camp the visitors will spring some new ones. While, of course, they are always welcome—especially the ladies, bless their hearts—visitors are often a source of real anxiety to the bird men. For one thing they swarm in front of the hangars, and when a machine is run out and the propellers start the whirling, the crowd lines up where the blades (if the propellers should break) would go sizzling into the crowd, doing great damage. But there is something deeply interesting in seeing the operator take his seat, test the levers controlling the planes, tune up the engine, and then everything is all right signal to the helpers to get out of the way as he turns on the power and the machine goes skimming over the ground, gaining momentum for a flight for all the world like a wild duck at the same time.

Then, as it shoots away, the plane's propellers send the air back in a rushing wind that makes people grab for their hats.

Aviation is unquestionably popular. A score of cities, at least, were ambitious to be selected as the scene of the winter aviation maneuvers. Probably a thousand officers in the Army would like to be attached to the school. The War Department will not assign any officer to the school unless he has first volunteered for the service, and probably 200 have already volunteered. The fact that about 1,000 officers are detached on special service has deterred the Department from assigning any more officers to the school, but it is believed now that it may be possible to assign half a dozen more to the winter camp. There is enough money on hand to buy five or six more machines, and the great activity being shown by foreign governments in the study of aviation has caused this government to realize that it is dropping almost hopelessly into the rear place as far as military aviation goes.

However, as far as it goes, the government work is worthy of commendation. Its school is flourishing. It consists of six officers, as follows: Commanding, Chas. de F. Chandler, commanding, of the Signal Corps; Captain Paul Beck, 15th Infantry, recently relieved from duty with the Signal Corps; Lieut. Henry Kirtland, 14th Infantry; Lieut. Frank H. Arnold, 24th Infantry; Lieut. Frank M. Kennedy, 10th Infantry; Lieut. Milling, 15th Cavalry; Dr. Kelly, Medical Corps, and twenty men.

The presence of the doctor is explained by the fact that an Army surgeon is always on hand at the camp, as well as a sergeant from the Hospital Corps. Moreover, as a further precaution in case of accidents, each man carries, when he goes up in a plane, a little emergency or first aid packet, about the size of a cigarette case, containing some gauze, salve for burns, aromatic ammonia, smelling salts, an open wave bandage, boric gauze, cotton oil for burns, court plaster, adhesive plaster, safety pins to fasten bandages, and jaconet (water and oil proof).

Although they are not allowed to indulge in much spectacular work, the Army fliers are among the most skillful in the country, as is evidenced when they are given permission to take part in aviation meets. Then they easily bring away their share of the prize money which the Government permits them to retain. This makes it better worth while to dare the dangers of aerial flight, and tends to lessen the discontent which might creep into the ranks of the Army fliers who see "civililians" reaping rewards for their skill and daring. At that, however, there is not so much wealth in flying as many think. To hear of an occasional big winning by an airman it might seem that all of them were growing rich rapidly; but there are so many of them now that almost every country flier can have an aeroplane as an attraction, and the aviators who do not have to give the lion's share of their earnings to their managers are likely to be against each other and out the price for exhibition flights. Most of the aviators whose names are well known, are under contract to the aeroplane companies, and get a flat salary, with a bonus, perhaps, of $50 a day when they actually make flights.

The enlisted man has no chance to become pilot of an air ship. At the aviation camp is a detail of twenty men of the Signal Corps, from a New York post. It was a lot of fun for them at first, but they are beginning to miss the comfort of their old quarters, and the novelty of living in camp is wearing off. They do not operate machines and cannot become aviators, but occasionally one is taken up on a ride through the air. These men make repairs to machines, care for the planes, camp, and, of course, accompany the school to its winter camp, where they will receive no reinforcements, even though the number of student officers be doubled.

Everyone at the winter camp, including the officers, will live in tents, especially equipped for this service. The machines will be kept in canvas houses specially designed to serve as hangars. There will be a very possible convenience, and a system of fire protection will be installed. As in the case at College Park, aviators who are testing on their own machines will probably be allowed to use the aviation field.

Apparently there is little thought of the part of the Army of making use of the aeroplane for offensive work. It is declared that there was no serious intention of trying to drop bombs from a flying machine, because it would be necessary to keep a height which would make accurate aim almost impossible, and also because a bomb could not be depended on to do any serious damage unless it could be used to blow up a drydock, or to destroy some other of the enemy's works of a vital nature. What the Army men are trying to do is to learn the perfect control of their machines, to study the air currents, and to map the country from aloft. They have learned this—that at College Park, at least, conditions for flying are unfavorable when the wind is in the northwest, north or northeast, but that conditions are almost always good when the wind is in the southeast, south, or southwest, even if there be half a gale on the ground. What the reasons are for this seems to be decidedly obscure.

THE GIRL WITH BEAUTIFUL HAIR

Attracts Attention Everywhere

There is one sure and certain way for every woman to have beautiful hair, and that is to give it intelligent care, which includes the use of Newbro's Herpicide.

He Called It Luck.

Michael Meehan was the proud possessor of a brand new silk high hat.

At the wake of his dearest enemy he had guarded it carefully, and as a consequence was strolling home with the title unscathed. As he passed the site of a building operation, a woman acquaintance nodded pleasantly. With an ostentatious wave of the hat, which exhibited it to excellent advantage, Michael bowed. At the same moment a brick sailed down from an upper floor and bounced from his bare skull. Upon coming to, he inquired anxiously for the hat. A bystander restored it unharmed. Mike felt the egg-size lump on his head occasioned by the impact of the brick, and then regarded his undamaged tie. "Egory," he sighed in satisfaction, "it's lucky it is I saw the lady in toime!"—Lippincott's Magazine

YOUR STOMACH FEELS FINE IN FIVE MINUTES

As there is often some one in your family who suffers an attack of indigestion or some form of Stomach trouble, why don't you keep some Diapiesin in the house handy?

This harmless blessing will digest anything you can eat without the slightest discomfort, and overcome a sour, gassy Stomach five minutes after.

Tell your pharmacist to let you read the formula, plainly printed on these 50-cent cases of Pape's Diapiesin, then you will readily see why it makes indigestion, Sour Stomach, Heartburn and other distress go in five minutes, and relieves at once such miseries as Belching of Gas, Eructations of sour, undigested food, Nausea, Headaches, Dizziness, Constipation and other Stomach disorders.

Some folks have tried so long to find relief from indigestion and Dyspepsia or an out-of-order stomach with the common, every-day cures ad vertised that they have about made up their minds that they have something else wrong, or believe there is a case of Nervousness, Gastritis, Catarrh of the Stomach or Cancer.

This, no doubt is a serious mistake. Your real trouble is, what you eat does not digest; instead, it ferments and sours, turns to acid. Gas and stomach poison, which butrely in the digestive tract and intestines, and besides, poison the breath with nauseous odors.

A hearty appetite, with thorough digestion, and without the slightest discomfort or misery of the Stomach, I waiting for you as soon as you decide to try Pape's Diapiesin.

LODGE OF SORROW AT THE AUDITORIUM SUNDAY EVENING

All the arrangements are now complete for the annual Lodge of Sorrow, which is to be held by the members of Newark Lodge of Elks at the Auditorium on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The memorial address will be delivered by Hugo N. Schlessinger, of Columbus, ex-state president of the Ohio Elks, and Archie Davis of this city will give the eulogy. A special program has been arranged for the occasion which will include a number of vocal selections by the Elks' quartet. A cordial invitation is extended to all to be present.

The program begins with the opening service with E. W. Murphy as Exalted Ruler. This will be followed by a number by the Elks' quartet, "Lead Kindly Light," after which the opening ode will be sung by the members, followed by the invocation by the Rev. J. Morrison Thomas. The quartet will then sing "Sleep Thy Last Sleep," which will be followed by Bro. A. C. Davison, who will deliver the eulogy. That grand and inspiring number, "Jesus, Savior Pilot Me," will be rendered by the quartet, after which Hon. Hugo N. Schlessinger, Past Exalted Ruler of Ohio, will deliver the memorial address. The last number by the quartet, "Abide With Me," will be sung, concluding with the closing service by the lodge, the singing of the doxology by the lodge and audience, and the benediction by the Rev. J. Morrison Thomas. Miss Mary Hentze will be the accompanist.

FACTS AND FICTION.

Experiences of Newark Citizens Are Easily Proven to Be Facts.

The most superficial investigation will prove that the following statement from a resident of Newark is true. Read it and compare evidence of Newark people with testimony of strangers living so far away you cannot investigate the facts of the case. Many more citizens of Newark endorse Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. A. J. Rowe, 96 N. Williams St., Newark, Ohio, says: Doan's Kidney Pills did me a lot of good when I used them some time ago. I had dizzy and nervous spells. My head ached and I did not sleep well at night. My kidneys were out of order and I had backaches. When I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I got a supply at A. F. Crayton & Co.'s Drug Store. Their use soon made me strong and well."

NOTES FROM THE CENTRAL LEAGUER

The Central Leaguer, a baseball publication specializing in Central League news has been added to the Advocate's exchange table.

The paper each week contains much newsy gossip from over the circuit in which Newark spent a few minutes last summer. Below is given some notes taken from this week's issue:

A special from Grand Rapids says that the Central League will take in four more clubs next season making a 12-club circuit. President Carson denies this rumor.

South Bend has gone plumb nutty over 1912 prospects. Manager Henry Arndt says he will have a team of youngsters that will travel a fast pace.

Joe McGinty of the Newark Eastern League may manage the Terre Haute club next season.

Bert Annis says he saw no baseball talent at San Antonio attractive enough to him to loosen the shackles in his purse. He recommended Eddie Wheeler for the managerial job which Eddie may land.

Dayton beat Harry Arndt of South Bend, to Outfielder Harley whom the Vets signed up.

Straight dope from headquarters is to the effect that Hugo Swartling will manage the Zanesville club next season. In other cities managers are supposed to know something, but not in Zanesville. That's why Joe didn't stay, and it is also the answer of Roy Montgomery's change to Wheeling.

William Armour has retired as president of the Toledo A. A. club. He was the pilot of the Dayton club in the old Inter-state League days.

Dayton's outfield next year will be Wickland, ex-Newarkite, DeHaven and Knoll. Knoll may nab onto Mike Donovan, former Evansville player.

Chas. Rigler, former Central League umpire and who will be remembered by Newark fans in the old Ohio Protective association days, is umpiring this winter in Cuba.

Luddy Livingston, former Wheeling player, is destined to catch for the Naps next season.

Louie Wehner of the Dayton club, while at San Antonio, traded pitcher Wheeler to the New Haven club in the Massachusetts League. He got Pitcher Christopher in return.

Schmick and Kilm, both the property of Grand Rapids will fight it out for the first base position next season.

Pitcher Summers, with Dayton last year goes to Nashville next year.

The game will not be called until 8:15, so that there won't be any delays.

HEALTHY MOTHERS

Women who bear children and remain healthy are those who prepare their systems in advance of baby's coming. Unless the mother aids nature in its pre-natal work the child finds her system unequal to the demands made upon it, and she is often left with weakened health or chronic ailments. No remedy is so truly a help to nature as Mother's Friend, and no expectant mother should fail to use it. It relieves the pain and discomfort caused by the strain on the ligaments, makes pliant and elastic those fibres and muscles which nature is expanding, prevents

BREAKING OUT COVERED BODY

Where Scratched It Made Sores, Terrible Itching and Burning Kept Her from Sleeping, Cuticura Remedies Completely Cured Her. No Return.

"Three years ago this winter I had a breaking out that covered my whole body. It itched so it seemed as if I should go crazy. It first came out in little pimples on my back and spread till it covered my whole body and limbs down to my knees, also my arms down to my elbows. Where I scratched, it made sores, and the terrible itching and burning kept me from sleeping. I tried several remedies all to no purpose. Then I concluded to try the Cuticura Remedies. I used the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, also the Resolvent, for about four months, and they completely cured me of eczema. I never had no return of the disease since. I never had a good night's rest after the skin eruptions first broke out till I commenced using the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I had only used them a few days before I could see that they were beginning to heal, and the terrible itching was gone.

"Those that lived in the house at the time know how I suffered, and how the Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured me. I never take a bath without using the Cuticura Soap, and I do not believe there are better remedies for any skin disease than the Cuticura Soap and Ointment." (Signed) Miss Sarah Calkins, Waukegan, Ill., Mar. 16, 1911.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment are for sale throughout the world, but to those who have suffered much, lost hope and are without faith in any treatment, a liberal sample of each together with 32-p. booklet on the care and treatment of the skin and scalp will be mailed free on request. MEN'S MEETING.

The Christian Men's Union will meet in the First Methodist church at the corner of Fifth and Locust streets tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mr. J. K. Shellenberger, of Wooster, Ohio and one of the general secretaries of the Brotherhood of the Disciples of Christ will deliver the address. This is one of the meetings that the men have been looking forward to for a number of months anxious, as they all are to hear Mr. Shellenberger speak along one of the phases of "How To Do a Man's

Work in a Man's Way." Free tickets have been distributed and any man not securing one before coming to the meeting can easily receive one near the door. This is done in order that the actual number of men present may be known. Let all men interested know that these meetings are open to men generally.

OBITUARY

DAVID E. BLAND.
David E. Bland died at the home of his mother, Mrs. Ella J. Bland, 341 East Main street, about 4 o'clock Saturday morning, after an illness of nearly two years with tuberculosis. The deceased was aged about 40 years and was a former conductor in the employ of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad company, and had been in care of the relief department for a long time. He is survived by a widow and number of other relatives. The funeral services will be held at two o'clock Monday afternoon from the East Main Street M. E. church, the services being conducted by the pastor, the Rev. M. Laughlin. The funeral will be in charge of Newark Lodge, No. 97, F. & A. M., with an escort from St. Luke's Commandery, No. 34, Knights Templar. The interment will be made in Cedar Hill cemetery.

MRS. FLORENCE MURPHY.
Mrs. Florence Murphy, colored, died at her home, 120 Poplar avenue, Friday evening at 5:30 o'clock, after an illness of some time, following a stroke of paralysis. She is survived by several children. The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon from her late residence, and the interment will be made in Cedar Hill cemetery.

HARRIET B. STRANG.
Mrs. Harriett B. Strang (nee Hattie B. Lemert) of Los Angeles, Calif., died December 1 at the Los Angeles hospital. It was a great grief to her many friends and relatives ten days ago when they received the news of her illness. Although the surgeons and physicians held no hope for her recovery, the news of her death was a shock.

Harriett B. Strang was the youngest of a family of ten children, six sons and four daughters, born to Beverly and Margaret Fleming of Elizabethtown, Ohio. Mrs. Henry A. Montgomery of East Main street, this city, is the oldest daughter. Mrs. Julia Bradford of Des Moines, Ia., a younger sister, was with her at the time of her death. Ed L. Lemert is the only surviving brother. Lemert Post, G. A. R. of this city was named for her brothers and cousins.

The deceased was graduated from the Granville Female Seminary in 1871 and was a member of Hyperion society. In 1875 she was married to Edwin Strang, who died three years ago. The family has resided in California since 1884.

An early life she united with the Christian church and has ever remained a consistent member of that belief. Mrs. Strang was also a member of the Ohio Society of Los Angeles and always extended a hearty welcome to visitors from her home state.

One son Carl, a daughter, Mrs. Walter Wood and three grand children are the nearest surviving relatives. The funeral services will be Monday at 2 o'clock in Los Angeles.

MRS. ANNA LUDWIG.
Mrs. Anna Ludwig, aged 56 years, died at her home in Granger street, Saturday morning at 4 o'clock. She is survived by three children by a former marriage, Grover Hill of Cleveland, Clarence Hill and Barclay Hill of this city.

No arrangements have been completed for the funeral.

Idle Wonder.
Instead of wondering how some women look so pretty on the street, we find ourselves at a loss sometimes to understand how they manage to look so poorly at home.

YOUR GRAY HAIRS WILL QUICKLY VANISH

A feeling of sadness accompanies the discovery of the first gray hairs, which, unfortunately, are looked upon as heralds of advancing age. Gray hairs, however, are not always an indication of advancing age, for many people have gray hairs quite early in life. Of course, it is unnatural, and indicates that there is something wrong with the individual, and that Nature needs assistance in correcting the trouble. The same is true of hair that is constantly falling out and becoming thinner every day. If everything is right with Nature, the hair, even in comparatively elderly people, should be long, thick and glossy, without even a streak of gray.

The ideal assistant to Nature in restoring and preserving the hair is Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a clean and wholesome dressing for daily use. It not only removes dandruff, but strengthens weak, thin and falling hair and promotes its growth. A few applications will restore faded or gray hair to its natural color.

Get a bottle today, and let it do for you what it has done for thousands of others.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

COLDS VANISH

Quick, Sensible Method That Doesn't Upset the Stomach.

Have you heard of the overnight cold cure that is putting colds in the head and chest out of business between sunset and daybreak?

Here it is. Cut it out and save it if you don't need it now. If you have a cold, cough, throat soreness or acute catarrh, be sure and try it tonight just before going to bed. Pour a scant teaspoonful of HYOMEI (pronounce it High-o-mei) into a bowl of boiling water, cover head and bowl with a towel and breathe for several minutes the vapor that rises, then go to sleep and awake with a clear head free from mucus.

HYOMEI is guaranteed for catarrh, colds, coughs, croup, asthma, sore throat and bronchitis, or money back. Bottle of Hyomei 50 cents at Evans' Drug Store and druggists everywhere.

JACKSONTOWN

The M. E. church, which has been repaired, was re-dedicated on Sunday, Rev. Norcross, of Zanesville, preaching in the morning. Rev. Mr. Sparks of Newark, in the afternoon, and Rev. Mr. Brown of Zanesville, at night. A bountiful dinner was served by the ladies of the church at noon. An alcove and a vestibule have been added to the church, new pulpit, furniture, altar rail, seats, window lights, chandeliers, stoves, carpet, papering and painting, have added much to the beauty of the church. The church repairs cost $1076.88 and $1322 were raised in short time on Sunday morning. With the extra money raised, other needed repairs will be made. The Ladies Aid of the church gave over $300 and the Question Mark, the young people's organization gave $164, while the members and friends of the church gave the remaining amount of money.

Miss Milda Swartz entertained the Thimble club at her home north of town on Wednesday afternoon. The afternoon was spent in sewing and delicious refreshments were served the following guests: Mrs. Glennie Lewis, Misses Mable Wallace, Mary Lewis, Misses Mable Wallace, Rebecca Osburn, Charrie Beard, Rebecca and Elizabeth Crist, Ethelwyn Davis, Fannie and Grace Gray, Lulu Swartz and Master George Swartz, Jr.

Dr. Snooks of Columbus, was a guest on Sunday of John Handley. Frank Crist of Washington, D. C., is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Crist.

Mr. Benj. Ept. of Columbus, spent Sunday with his son, Norman Ept.

The schools closed on Wednesday for the Thanksgiving holiday, appropriate exercises being held in the primary and grammar rooms.

Mrs. Sadie Anderson and Ella Harter of Newark, were the guests Saturday and Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Griffith.

The Columbus Gas Company drilled in a six million foot well on the J. O. Davis farm on Tuesday. The well is located a quarter of a mile north of Pike station.

Mrs. Brelsford of Colorado, is visiting her cousin, Mrs. T. C. Jury.

The "Question Marks" the young peoples' organization of the M. E. Sunday school gave an interesting program at the church Wednesday night. The vocal numbers were two solos by Mrs. Colonel Meredith, a quartette, "The Little Brown Church in the Dale" sung by Messrs. Dustheimer, Arnold, Griffith and Brownfield, a violin solo, "The Dream Fairy" by Paul Daily. Enjoyable readings were given by Mr. Tracy Marshall, of Columbus and Mrs. Vern Davis. The members of the class in rhyme and prose, told how they had helped repair the church. The silver offering taken amounted to $7.40.

Afraid of Ghosts

Many people are afraid of ghosts. Few people are afraid of germs. Yet the ghost is a fancy and the germ is a fact. If the germ could be magnified to a size equal to its terrors it would appear more terrible than any fire-breathing dragon. Germs can't be avoided. They are in the air we breathe, the water we drink.

The germ can only prosper when the condition of the system gives it free scope to establish itself and develop. When there is a deficiency of vital force, languor, restlessness, a hollow cheek, a hollow eye, when the appetite is poor and the sleep is broken, it is time to guard against the germ. You can fortify the body against all germs by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It increases the vital power, cleanses the system of clogging impurities, circulates the blood, puts the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition in working condition, so that the germ finds no weak or tainted spot in which to breed. "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol, whisky or habit-forming drugs. All its ingredients are printed on its outside wrapper. It is not a secret nostrum, but a medicine of known composition and with a record of 10 years of cures. Accept no substitute—there is nothing "just as good." Ask your neighbors,

HEART AND HOME TALKS BY BARBARA BOYD

One Woman's Recipe for Acquiring and Retaining Charm.

HE is a delightful woman. Everybody likes her. Indeed, "like" is scarcely strong enough, for many who know her truly love her. And she is not young or beautiful. But wherever she goes, even if among strangers, she soon has a following of ardent friends. It was not easy to get her to give her outlook on life, for she is modest and unassuming. But in the course of a conversation, some hints were extracted.

She forgets disagreeable things. She doesn't store them up in memory and brood over them, and let them eat away her cheerfulness and sweetness. She recognizes that we are all human and that people will say and do unkind things. But she says one never knows what provocation they may have had to cause the state of mind that led to their action; and that anyway, life is too short and there is too much happiness in it, to let such things disturb it.

So you see, she is always serene and bright and joyous, and people like to meet her, and go away from her presence feeling as if they had taken a mental tonic.

Then, she knows how to say pleasant things. She doesn't believe in saying insincere things; but she is big enough and generous enough to express her admiration for another woman's success, a smart hat or gown, or whatever it may be that is worth commenting on.

Few of us do enough of this. We fail to give the little word of praise or admiration that may be just the encouragement needed to lift some one over a difficult place in life's journey. This doesn't mean we should go about loading people down with compliments or flattery. But it does mean a word of appreciation in the right time and place.

Then, she doesn't expect too much from her friends. She knows none of us have won our halos yet, and that even the pin-feathers haven't started on some of our wings. And so she overlooks little slips and omissions, and looks to the heart of her friends rather than to their actions for an understanding of friendship.

She has retained her faith in things, illusions, pessimists call them. She believes good is the chief power in the world, and so she is an inspiration, a heartener of the disheartened, an encourager of the discouraged.

She has learned the art of making seemingly disagreeable work agreeable, by seeing with a spiritual eye, the purpose of it. And knowing that it comes to her really with a blessing in its hands, she no longer murmurs at its unpleasant guise. And thus she has a quiet, contented spirit, whose very presence radiates peace.

This may all seem as if she is some paragon. But she is not. She is just a bright, cheery, kindly, loving woman, who refuses to judge or bear malice, who is eminently practical, and who is ever ready to help those who appeal to her in any way she can. Perhaps those of us who are not finding life as satisfactory as we wish it, may find our feet turning into brighter paths if we adopt some of her methods.

LINGAFELTER-YOUNG.

On Thursday, November 30, a pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Young of Highwater, when their daughter, Sarah, was united in marriage to Laurence J. Lingafelter of Chatham.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Gulligan, in the presence of the immediate families and a few friends.

RULER MAKES THE SEASONS

When Emperor of China Declares It Is Summer People All Doff White Clothing.

The emperor of China has some strange duties. One of these is the ordering of the seasons. It is summer in America when the sun warms the earth, and not until then, but in China, it is summer when the emperor (or, at the present time, the regent) says it is summer. As soon as the emperor declares that summer has come everybody in China puts off winter clothing, and arrays himself in summer garb, no matter what his feelings on the subject may be. All domestic arrangements are made to suit the season, as proclaimed by the emperor, although they may not suit the individual at all.

The nearest approach to the Chinese system of ordering the seasons is the practice observed in France in all public buildings. There it is winter on and after October 1. Fires are then lighted in all government offices, and the employees exchange their white summer waistcoats for the thicker and darker ones of winter. At that date the public libraries are closed at four, and in the streets the sellers of toasted chestnuts make their appearance. In official France it is winter, no matter what the weather may say, and no matter what unofficial France may think.

Deception. "There are times when a person can scarcely believe his eyes." "Especially when he is an amateur mushroom gatherer."

MISS FINCH COMING FOR THE LIBRARY

Miss Lucine Finch will come to Newark on December 18th, for the benefit of the public library. Miss Finch in her charming story telling entertainment, consisting entirely of original negro stories and songs, gives a delightful program. Miss Finch, herself an actress of great talent, has been told these unique and sometimes weird tales by her old southern mammy, an African princess in her own land, and they are given to the audience exactly as they were originally told. The songs are the ancient chants and curious melodies of the negro race. Altogether it is an entertainment delightfully different, interesting and mirth making and a great pleasure in store for all friends of the library. The entertainment will be given at the High School Auditorium. Tickets 25 cents. Reserved seats the same.

Smoke or Ride, Which?

In the early days of the London, Brighton & South Coast Railway the regulations against smoking were strictly enforced. The Mechanics' Magazine of September, 1842, records that "a foreign gentleman was recently smoking a cigar in a train coming from Brighton to London. The guard warned him the practice was not allowed. Nevertheless, he continued to smoke, and finished his cigar. At the next station he was asked for his ticket and ordered out of the coupe; and the guard, addressing one of the officers on the platform, warned him that that person was not to be allowed to proceed to London by any train that night. So there he was left."—London Chronicle.

$3.50 RECIPE FREE, FOR WEAK KIDNEYS.

Relieves Urinary and Kidney Troubles, Backache, Straining, Swelling, Etc.

Stops Pain in the Bladder, Kidneys and Backs.

Wouldn't it be nice within a week or so to begin to say goodbye forever to the scalding, dribbling, straining, or too frequent passage of urine, the forehead and the back-of-the-head aches; the stitches and pains in the back; the growing muscle weakness; spots before the eyes; yellow skin; sluggish bowels; swollen eyelids or ankles; leg cramps; unnatural short breath; sleeplessness and the despondency? I have a recipe for these troubles that you can depend on, and if you want to make a quick recovery, you ought to write and get a copy of it. Many a doctor would charge you $2.50 just for writing this prescription, but I have it and will be glad to send it to you entirely free. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. E. Robinson, 1429 Luck Building, Detroit, Mich. and I will send it by return mail in a plain envelope. As you will see when you get it, this recipe contains only pure, harmless remedies, but it has great healing and pain-conquering power. It will quickly show its power once you use it, so I think you had better see what it is without delay. I will send you a copy free, on can use it and cure yourself at home.

Ruskin as a Grocer.

Ruskin was once a grocer. In 1874 he opened a shop in Paddington street, Notting Hill, in order, as he announced, "to supply the poor with pure tea in packets as small as they choose to buy, without making a profit on the subdivision, larger orders being, of course, equally acceptable from anybody who cares to promote honest dealing." The shop did not attract, Ruskin complained in "Fors Clavigera" that "the poor only like to buy their tea where it is brilliantly lighted and eloquently ticketed; and as I resolutely refuse to compete with my neighboring tradesmen, either in gas or rhetoric, the patient subdivision of my parcels passes little recognized as an advantage by my uncalculating public." The shop soon closed down, and the grocery trade lost the most distinguished representative it is ever likely to possess.—London Chronicle.

A Father's Vengeance

Would have fallen on any one who attacked the son of Peter Bondy of South Rockwood, Mich., but he was powerless before attacks of kidney trouble. "Doctors could not help him," he wrote, "so at last we gave him Electric Bitters and he improved wonderfully from taking six bottles. It's the best kidney medicine I ever saw." Backache, tired feeling, nervousness, loss of appetite, warn of kidney trouble that may end in dropsy, diabetes or Bright's disease. Beware; take Electric Bitters and be safe. Every bottle guaranteed. 50c. at F. D. Hall's.

ADVICE

BY MISS HILDA WADDELL.

Don't get down on your knees to ask
A girl to marry you
Take my advice—I've tried it twice
It worked fine two times, too.

The thing to do is get her on
Your knees when you propose
Take this advice for what it's worth.
It comes from one who knows.

Ask Your Doctor

Ayer's Sarsaparilla is a tonic. It does not stimulate. It does not make you feel better one day, then as bad as ever the next. There is not a drop of alcohol in it. You have the steady, even gain that comes from a strong tonic. Ask your doctor all about this. Trust him fully, and always do as he says.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

The Mouse That Went Bicycle Riding

“THERE’S a mouse in her pantry, and Dinah is awfully put out about it,” said Jack.

“Yes, and you and Evelyn will be put out if mouse gets into the cake box or gnaws her way into the jelly glasses and eats your share. You won’t like that very well, will you?” said daddy.

“No, indeed,” replied the children.

“However, if Dinah’s mouse got as much exercise as a mouse I’ve just heard about it would be no wonder it had chosen the pantry for its home, for it would have reason to be hungry.

“This mouse lived in the cellar of a house in Philadelphia. It had always fared well until the family left the city for a visit. Then the house was closed, and crumbs became scarcer and scarcer. The cupboard shelves were cleaned off by the mice, and every nook and corner of the house was ransacked for food. Most of the mice made up their minds to move, but this little gray mouse loved his home.

“‘Surely, if I work hard I can find something to eat,’ said he. So he gnawed at the corners of books and chewed the leather covers of chairs—in fact, got along on anything he could find. Upstairs he ate a bit of soap and in one corner of the cellar dined off some putty. It was a hard life, and mouse became thin and weak before long.

“‘But surely our folks will come home some day,’ he said, and he would prowl around quite hopefully, wishing that they might return soon. He was ready to welcome them even if they brought him another cat.

“One day he crossed the huge beams of the cellar ceiling and looked down. A queer object was hanging below him, and in looking at it he lost his foothold and dropped. He fell just on top of one of its rubber tired wheels, for it was a bicycle. Round and round it went, and to keep from being tossed off the mouse had to run up the tire. You see, his weight caused the wheel to turn.

“‘Nobody knows how long the poor little mouse kept up his running, but one day the family did come home, and the owner of the bicycle, who had hung it to the ceiling to keep it safe, went down to have a look at it.

“He was amazed to see the wheel spinning round and round. Then he noticed the mouse and stopped the wheel. The little mouse dropped to the floor and lay there panting, too worn out to run away. When the folks looked at the instrument that showed how much the wheels had turned it gave the distance that the mouse had traveled as eighteen miles. Quite a stretch for one small mouse, wasn’t it, and quite a queer way for a mouse to travel?”

BRINGS SWEET SLUMBER TO NERVE-WRECKED PEOPLE

Quarter Century Ago.

(From Advocate, Dec. 2, 1886.)

Dr. J. W. Leighton, one of the most prominent residents of Licking county, died very suddenly at his home in Black Hand.

Mrs. Whenton, an aged lady residing in the North End, fell and broke her wrist this morning.

Mr. L. B. Hall of the five and ten cent store on Third street has just returned home from the East.

Mr. Willis A. Robbins returned from the Union County Spring last night.

Fifty Years Ago Today.

Dec. 2.

The regular session of the Thirty-seventh or first "war congress" convened.

Planters along the Atlantic coast were burning their rice and cotton crops to prevent capture by the Federal armies.

Great Britain placed 55 warships, mounting 1,378 guns, under orders in anticipation of war with the United States.

Twenty-five Years Ago Today.

Bismarck abandoned his project for a German naval station on the Caroline Islands, subject to the sovereignty of Spain.

Express Business Increases.
A big increase in the express business through here is an indication that the Christmas business has begun and will be kept up until after Christmas day. On the railroads through Newark considerable business such as is usually handled at Christmas time, is now being noticed, and there is every indication that there will be a big Christmas business.

ECZEMA
(Also Called Tetter, Salt Rheum, Pruritic Eruption, Weeping Skin, etc.)
ECZEMA CAN BE CURED TO STAY, and when I say cured, I mean just what I say—C-U-R-E-D, and not merely patched up for awhile. To return worse than before. Remember I make this broad statement after putting ten years of my time on this one disease and handling in the mean-time a quarter of a million cases of this dreadful disease. Now I do not care what all you have used, nor how many doctors have told you that you could not be cured—all I ask is just a chance to show you that I know what I am talking about. If you will write me TODAY, I will send you a FREE TRIAL of my mild soothing, guaranteed cure that will convey to you in ten days what I or anyone else could in a month's time. If you are disgusted and discouraged, I dare you to give me a chance to prove my claims. By writing me to-day you will enjoy more real comfort than you had ever thought this world holds for you. Just try it and you will see I am telling you the truth.

When Artists Can't Agree.
Lodging complaints against artists is a common diversion of their fellow tenants who lack the artistic temperament, but the most unusual grievance and from her standpoint the most vital has been registered by the janitress of a building largely occupied by struggling painters.

"Let them daub away all they please 'in their own rooms,'" she said; "that's nobody's business, but for goodness sake let them leave the clothes poles in the backyard alone. They paint them fresh every few days because no two of the artists can agree on an appropriate color, and when plain people who don't mind looking at a plain clothes pole hang out their wash the clothes get all smeared with fresh paint."

Justifies Nursery Rhyme.
The school children of Germany are taught to swim without the use of water and thus does an old nursery rhyme secure justification.

Irrigation In Chile.
Chile is producing great harvests of cotton and other valuable staples by extended irrigation. Already about 2,500,000 acres of her territory are being treated in this way and about as much more of her land is available for the same purpose.

TRADE AND TARIFF.
Protective duties are of no more value between the United States and Canada than they would be between Minnesota and Wisconsin. The notion that the price of any farm product of which we produce a surplus is affected by a duty on imports is a relic of economic ignorance too dense for this century. When we do not produce a surplus, but have to buy abroad, it will be to the advantage of the home consumer to buy as reasonably as possible. Canada is our nearest neighbor and our most advantageous market for either buying or selling. The spirit that opposes reciprocity because there is in it some advantage for Canada would destroy all commerce. Trade is built upon the principle that both parties profit by a fair interchange of products.—James J. Hill.

LEGAL NOTICE.

Joseph Makranyi and Elizabeth Makranyi, whose places of residence are unknown, but who are supposed to reside in Flint, Michigan, are hereby notified that on the 3rd day of November, 1911, The Citizens Building and Loan Association of Newark, Ohio, filed in the Probate Court of Licking County, Ohio, a petition praying for the foreclosure of a certain mortgage, executed on the 11th day of March, 1907, by said Joseph Makranyi and Elizabeth Makranyi to said Association for the sum of $600.00, upon the South half of lot No. 1609 and the East half of lot No. 1611, in Henry Smith's Addition to the City of Newark, Ohio, according to a Plat of said Addition recorded in Plat Book, Volume 1, pages 267 and 268 of the Record of Plats of said County.

Said petition alleges that the conditions of said mortgage have been broken; that there was due October 25th, 1911, $510.95, and prays that said real estate may be sold to pay the amount due upon said mortgage unless the said Joseph Makranyi and Elizabeth Makranyi shall pay the same before the day of hearing. Said defendants are requested to answer said petition on or before the 8th day of December, 1911, or judgment will be rendered as prayed for in said petition.

THE SCIENCE OF FARMING

TEN COMMANDMENTS

BY H. J. RINK.

1. Give lots of exercise by scattering their hay or corn fodder out in the pasture. If this cannot be done use a very large yard and feed hay at one end and corn fodder or straw at the other extreme end, making them travel back and forth to secure their meals.
2. If sheep are allowed to get wet in early spring or fall they usually catch severe colds and run badly at the nose, sometimes developing chronic cough or pneumonia, and dying. If yards are wet and muddy foot rot is very apt to occur.
3. Have water nearby and handy for the sheep to drink. If they have to travel quite a distance for it they do not drink enough, especially at lambing time.
4. Salt and tobacco dust mixed prevents internal parasites, one of the sheep's worst foes.
5. Feed protein feeds, such as clover or alfalfa hay, bran and oats shortly before lambing. Use corn or other highly carbonaceous feed sparingly, especially when exercise is limited to yards.
6. Turnips are good until about the first of the year and rutabagas (or Swedes) from January to grass time. Feed sparingly until two to ten weeks before lambing, increase to one or two pounds per head a day. This prevents constipation and stretches and increases the milk flow. Where roots are not available use a little oil meal in their place.
7. If sheep are short of rack and trough and the strongest ones will crowd in and get all of the best feed, while the weaker and younger ones cannot get to it until the strong ones have their fill and leave only a little of the poorest feed for the smallest ones, making them weaker and weaker every day and not able to raise a lamb at lambing time.

WHAT A FOREST RANGER SHOULD KNOW

BY C. H. SHATTUCK.

Professor of Forestry, University of Idaho.

IT OCCURRED to the writer that a brief summary of the information needed by a young man about to enter the forest service as a ranger would be of interest to many. I would say that the first essential would be a knowledge of the general geography of the district which he is to supervise. It is very necessary that he be able to direct those under him as to the location of meadows for the pasture of horses, the name and course of various streams, the trend of mountain chains and the names and locations of prominent peaks. He should have a very thorough knowledge of roads, trails and the location of cabins and the manner of constructing each. He must also know how to handle horses. The ordinary mountain cayuse instinctively knows the tenderfoot, and will proceed on the slightest provocation to reveal bits of equine ingenuity which are sometimes surprising and often aggravating in the extreme.

It is imperative that he be familiar with the business of packing; this can only be acquired by actual laboratory practice, either in his college course or in the field. Many a young man has come to grief in the practical ranger's examination, because he could not put up in a permanent manner, a conglomerate of cooking utensils, axes, shovels, cross-cut saws, provisions and sleeping and wearing apparel. He must know how to throw the diamond hitch and the various swings and loops for holding each of the above necessities on the back of a sliding, climbing, jumping horse. Roads and trails are often steep and sometimes barred by various sized logs, the jumping of which by

SELECT SEED WHEAT NOW

BY C. R. BARNES.

Extension Division, Minnesota Agricultural College.

THE careful selection of seed wheat now, before marketing the crop, would seem to be made imperative by conditions which have revealed themselves in the Red river country and elsewhere. A large portion of the grain is rusted and shrunken; and unless the selection is made before marketing the bulk of the crop, the farmer is likely to find himself without a sufficiency of seed fit for next spring's planting.

J. D. Blisbrow of the Crookston experimental station reports an analysis of a sample which he thinks representative of much of the wheat in the Red river valley, with the following results:

Clean and plump seed.....	27 per cent
Shrunken seed.....	64 per cent
Weeds and dirt.....	8 per cent

The sample was No. 3 Northern and weighed fifty pounds per bushel. At the rate shown by the analysis, it would be necessary to save about four bushels of wheat for every bushel of seed needed. A vast deal of trouble will be avoided, therefore, by bringing the fanning mill into use for the purpose of selecting seed before marketing any grain. And if anyone is fortunate enough to find himself in possession of an oversupply of clean, plump and heavy seed, he can be sure of a high price for it in the spring.

An additional encouragement for taking up at once the work of selection is found in the fact that plump and well-developed seeds,

SOME ROOT POINTERS

BY E. J. DELWICHE.

Wisconsin Agricultural College.

ROOT crops will stand light frosts, but they should be harvested before heavy freezes. This applies especially to mangels. Roots may be stored in a pit, cellar, or root house.

Roots can probably be grown for less than $2 per ton under good conditions. The cost of production per acre is approximately $35.

Mangels give the heaviest yield per acre, with rutabagas and turnips a close second and carrots third.

Carrots and rutabagas are about equal in per cent of digestible nutrients and are higher in this respect than either mangels or turnips.

Turnips and rutabagas do not keep so well as some other roots. They should be fed in the fall and early winter in the order named.

Mangels and carrots keep well over winter when properly stored.

THE SOURING OF MILK

BY PROFESSOR G. L. MARTIN.

North Dakota Agricultural College.

THE souring of milk is not unlike the souring of fruit juice or vegetable matter. It is due to the action of a particular kind of micro-organism which we call bacteria. These little organisms are a good deal like other forms of life, in that they must have air, moisture, warmth and food in order to live, multiply and work. The particular food of a great many bacteria is sugar, and the product which they manufacture is called acid. For instance, when the juice is pressed from the apple, it is called sweet cider, because of the sugar it contains. But soon the bacteria enter from the air, from unclean utensils or from other surroundings, and at once begin work upon the sugar, which becomes vinegar unless put into an air-tight keg and kept in a cool place.

Among the constituents of milk are water to the amount of 87.1 per cent, fat 3.9 per cent, casein 3.5 per cent, mineral matter .75 per cent and sugar 4.75 per cent. When the milk is first drawn it tastes sweet because of the milk sugar which it contains, just the same as the cider tastes sweet when it is first pressed from the apples. The average milk, as will be seen, contains nearly 5 per cent sugar, which means about five pounds for every 100 pounds of milk, which, when changed into acid by the bacteria produces what we call souring.

To work best, these bacteria require warm surroundings of about 70 degrees F., or room temperature; besides, they must have some air and enough moisture to keep their food, the sugar, in solution. The milk, the same as cider, has all these conditions present, so just as soon as it is drawn the bacteria begin to work rapidly, because since the milk is warm all the conditions necessary are exactly right. Then, unless the milk is cooled, they continue rapid work until all the sugar is changed to acid—the milk sours.

Since these little organisms must first get into the milk, then have a warm temperature in which to work, the way to prevent the milk from getting sour is to keep the bacteria out as much as possible, then make the surroundings so cold that they cannot work. To do this, have all surroundings, as yard, stable and stall, in good sanitary condition, then curry and brush the cow at least with as much care and attention as is given the horses. Keep all pails, strainers and other milk utensils scrupulously clean and finally cool the milk to 50 degrees F. Immediately after milking. Setting milk into an ice box, a cave or a cellar to cool is not a very good plan, because of frequent poor ventilation and bad odors.

ABOUT THE SOIL

BY J. T. WILLARD.

THE soil is the basis of all life but the lowest. Silent, unrelenting, a prey to wind and water, it covers portions of the earth as a mantle of wealth. The strength of empires has for ages been drawn from it, and ever will be. A fertile soil is indispensable to the propitious founding, the continued development, and the perpetuity of a great people. Itself a product of disintegration and decay, it is the theater of organization and growth, the blending boundary between the mineral kingdom and the realm of life.

The earth has existed in substantially its present condition for unknown millions of years. It has reached this state by the ceaseless action of natural forces, forces that are acting to-day. The conditions that formed and placed soils in the past are operating now in a manner vital to their preservation and use. Hence there can be no intelligent and continuously effective treatment of soil that will use its fertility and at the same time conserve its possibilities, unless there is an understanding of the means by which soils have come to the condition in which man finds them.

WHITE EGG BREEDS

BY PROFESSOR W. R. GRAHAM, B. S. A.

THE high price of eggs during the last few years has increased the popularity of this class of chickens very much. Of all breeds in this class the Leghorns are the most popular, and of the Leghorns breed the white variety is bred more extensively than any other. Leghorns probably mature a little earlier and eat less food than the heavier breeds; they make fair broilers, but are comparatively useless as roasters. They lay a large number of good-sized eggs during the natural laying period. Winter layers they are fair, but in our experience more susceptible to changes in temperature than are the heavier breeds. This much must be said in their favor, that their eggs usually hatch better than those of the heavier breeds, and the chickens are very hardy. Of the other Leghorn varieties the most popular ones are the brown, buff and black; these varieties not being so popular from a market poultryman's standpoint owing to the color.

Minorcas—There are three varieties of Minorcas. The Rose Comb Black and the Single Comb Black are more commonly bred than is the White variety. This breed is larger than the Leghorn, and also lays a larger egg. They have very large combs and wattles.

Anconas—This breed might be termed a speckled or mottled Leghorn. They have all the characteristics of the Leghorn and are black and white in color. This breed is gaining in popularity among the practical poultrymen.

Hamburgs—There are several varieties of this breed. The black is the most popular. They are inclined to lay an undersized egg. We have found the black to be good layers and to lay a fair-sized egg. They have rose combs and are neat and active in appearance.

IN THE BARNYARD REALM

IN GIVING an kind of live stock water in the winter that causes them to shiver, is a loss. A little shivering prevents a day's growth.

Although there are countless inventions, we still lack successful milking and husking machines.

Don't be afraid to give the shotes plenty of range in the winter time, if they have a comfortable feeding floor and a comfortable house and bed to return to at night.

If the law becomes generally effective that cold storage and preserved eggs must be labeled and sold as such, there will be little, if any, damage done the poultry business. In that case they will not compete with the fresh-egg market, and the latter will naturally get a better price.

There is little hope for the farmer who prefers to buy runty males, and considers that breeders of pure-bred stock are robbing their customers. If he succeeds it will be in spite of his methods, not because of them. City people, not re-enforced from the farms, would soon run out.

Lack of exercise and too much carbonaceous food will necessitate an early market for the young porkers.

Don't compel the women folk to open and close two or three big gates through the cattle yards every time they go out to look up eggs.

CONCRETE AND CEMENT

(Announcement of 1st in Canal Commission.)

THE total amount of concrete laid for the Panama canal during the fiscal year 1910-11 was 1,742,923 cubic yards. The cost per cubic yard for concrete in the Canal locks was $6.5913; in the Gatun locks $6.7044; in the Pedro Miguel locks $4.7040, and in the Miraflores locks $4.6828. At Gatun 73,669 cubic yards of large rock were used, resulting in a saving of $263,137.45, or of 0.255 cents per cubic yard on each yard of material placed. In the production of stone for the concrete the cost in bins at Gatun was $2.3403 per cubic yard, and in the storage pile for the locks on the Pacific side $0.3443 per cubic yard.

Cement for the large part is delivered in barrels to the Atlantic division at a cost of $1.10 at tidewater in the United States, while in the Pacific division it is delivered in bags at a cost of $1.60 at tidewater in the United States per barrel, less credit for return of bags. As approximately 90 per cent of the bags were returned and accepted, the cement in bags cost $1.01 per barrel at tidewater in the United States.

MARKET WHEN RIPE

SENTIMENT is commendable in its place when applied to animals. It indicates an attachment that one is loath to break, but has no legitimate right to keep live stock too long on a farm where stock is being fed for profit.

Old dumb servants after years of faithfulness deserve a pension or a quiet, painless death at home.

But there are old cows and fat stock that is being kept too long, not because of sentiment, but because the farmers are ignorant of the time to sell.

Such men are in a line of work that requires a judgment they do not possess. They are not real live stock farmers. Having been successful as grain men in holding for a right turn of the market, they are still "market trailers" in the fat cattle line. That is, they sell when they think the market is in the "upper turn" without proper regard to the condition of the stock.

Such farmers are always small holders and never feed many head at a time. It is a sort of side-show business with them. Yet the prospective returns are a fair and sometimes a large factor in the farmers' income. Their ignorance does not see the two leaks in their methods.

1. They often sell before the stock is in proper condition.

2. They more often keep the cattle too long.

No. 1 causes a loss in the net producing pounds the instructed farmer would yet fed for after the formative growth had ceased.

No. 2 causes a feeding to maintain a condition without more gain.

Such animal feeding rapidly gets up a

FEED THE MILK MAKER

DON'T stop feeding the dairy cows just because they can gorge themselves on green grass. Furnish them with a little grain and roughage right along through the entire summer and consider that it enriches the milk flow, keeps the animals in firmer flesh and saves pasturage.

HIGH COST SELLING

TOO many people are getting a living out of the farmers' net profits or by causing a deficit in the farmers' earnings. Investigate the cost of selling, Mr. Consumer.

A. O. A.

PRACTICAL DEMONSTRATIONS

BY PROFESSOR CHRISTIE.

Purdue.

ANOTHER way of urging farmers to adopt new methods is through practical demonstrations. This year we have given more than seventy-five practical horticultural demonstrations in various parts of the state. The people of the counties are brought together at some convenient point in an orchard. Here spraying apparatus and spraying materials are assembled and a spraying demonstration given, with full information as to the making of the mixture and the applying of the same. A full line of pruning apparatus is also carried and a demonstration given on the methods and value of pruning fruit trees. This work has proved especially helpful and beneficial.

For several years the station and school have conducted experiments and demonstration work on several county farms of the state. Tests of varieties of corn of the county are made on these farms. In this way an opportunity is given the people to see and learn just what their variety of corn will do under the same soil and climatic conditions as corn from their neighbor's farm. In one man's variety of corn produced at the rate of 108 bushels an acre, while a neighbor's corn, grown right along beside it, only produced 60 bushels an acre. These varieties were planted on the same day with the same planter, were thinned down to two stocks to a hill, and had exactly the same number of stalks. They were harvested on the same day and weighed on the same scales, and a difference of more than 42 bushels an acre was obtained.

FINISHING THE TURKEY

ABOUT two weeks before Thanksgiving stories on turkey fattening appear, and most of them advise close confinement and lots of corn.

They are neither timely nor do they bring best results.

Finely finished birds that bring the bon ton are not built in a day.

For the first six months of a turkey's life it should be fed much protein to build big bone and large, strong frame.

The flock should then be divided into breeders and market birds.

The former should live a normal, natural life to fit them for reproduction, while the latter should be separated into three parts, gobblers, hens and smaller or backward birds, these to be kept distinct, not more than thirty to the bunch.

What is meant by finishing fowls?

This is a process by which weight is not only added, but the flesh is softened by displacing the water, of which the muscles are

DON'T USE WET FEED

THERE is no advantage in moistening the meal portion of the cow's ration. It is better to force her to thoroughly masticate her feed rather than to aid her in swallowing it quickly.

Mixing of the feed with the saliva of the mouth helps in its digestion. The fluid secreted by the mouth is quite important in digesting feeds rich in starch.

If the grain is moistened there is less saliva secreted and therefore the digestion of the feed is more or less impaired.

HOW TO USE THE BROOM

PEW people handle a broom, properly, although accustomed to its use every day of their lives. Always draw your broom by leaning it forward, because this allows the dirt to be moved along more gently and will not raise much dust. Most sweepers thrust the broom ahead of them in a sort of digging way, with the handle toward the sweep. This breaks the broom, wears out the carpet, flirts up dust and makes the sweeping much more difficult.

WATER CAPACITY OF SOIL

ACTUAL experiments show that the actual field water capacity of arid soils varies from 14 per cent for a very sandy loam to 18 per cent for a clay loam, with an average of about 16 per cent. The greatest water capacity would be even more. At this rate every twelve inches in depth of soil can hold from 2.25 to 2.65 inches of water, or an average of 2.45 inches. At this rate it is possible to store approximately twenty-three inches of water in the upper ten feet of soil. This is from one and one-half to two times the annual rainfall over the better dry farming sections. Therefore, it should be and is possible to store one or two years' rainfall in the soil by using proper tillage methods.

All the necessary elements for the most perfect farm publication in the world are contained in

AMERICA'S GREATEST FARM DAILY

Chicago Daily Farmers and Breeders Journal

Because:
It has purchasing power.
It has editorial excellence.
It has quality.
It has a definite and growing circulation.
It creates consumers' demands and is economical for the advertiser.
It is read by more than 50,000 farmers and will be read by 50,000 more within a few short years, judging from the increased demand for just such kind of a publication from the educated and progressive farmers of America.

M'NAMARAS CONFESS

Darrow also denied that external pressure was exerted from union sources and Socialist sources, as General Harrison Gray Otis charged last night in a formal statement or that the municipal election to be held here next Tuesday in which Job Harriman, one of the counsel for the defense, is candidate for mayor, carried any weight. It was learned that Harriman was not consulted at all in the deliberations.

White, gaunt and hoarse, Harriman leaned against the wall of his office and confessed this.

"The trial has nothing to do with local issues," he said. "I was not called into conference because the other attorneys said they did not want the local situation brought into it. I knew nothing of it until after it happened."

James B. McNamara pleaded guilty to having placed a dynamite bomb under the Los Angeles Times Building in October, 1910, and caused the death of 21 persons.

John J. McNamara, secretary and treasurer of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, brother of James B., did not enter a plea at this time to the indictment similarly entered against him for The Times explosion.

It was James B. McNamara who had balked at entering into an arrangement to plead guilty if it might affect his brother. He was willing to sacrifice himself, but he wanted his brother to go free. The attorneys, however, convinced him that the better course was for both to plead guilty and take their chances on a merciful sentence.

Word that John J. McNamara was coming caused the first ripple of excitement. He had not visited the courtroom since October 11, when trials were begun, and the case of the McNamaras was severed. When he entered it was generally realized that the case had reached a climax. He took a seat behind his brother and awaited developments. Between two deputies he sat chewing gum and smiling. Once he turned a flushed face toward the crowd and observed it in silence.

The bailiff rapped louder than usual when Judge Walter Bordwell mounted the bench. Instant silence followed.

"The people versus McNamara," remarked the court, and Attorney Lecompte Davis of the defense arose.

"Your honor," he declared, "the defendant is in court. In this case, People vs. McNamara, that is now on trial, may it please the court, after a long consideration of the matter and final consultation between counsel for the defendant, we have concluded to withdraw the plea of not guilty and have the defendant enter in this case a plea of guilty, and the like course we intend to pursue with reference to J. J. McNamara. In the case of the people against him, wherein he is charged with having destroyed the Llewellyn Iron Works or with having placed dynamite at the Llewellyn Iron Works. We have sent for him and he probably will be here."

Mr. Darrow—"He is here now."

Mr. Fredericks—"Mr. Clark, will you let me have the papers in this case. Mr. Clark, this is case No. 6939, is it?"

The clerk—"The case at bar, yes, sir."

Mr. Fredericks—"Mr. J. B. McNamara, will you stand up, please."

The defendant arose.

Mr. Fredericks—"Mr. J. B. McNamara, you have heretofore been arraigned on this indictment, No. 6939, charging you with the crime of murder, do you plead guilty or not guilty?"

The defendant—"Yes, sir."

Mr. Fredericks—"The prisoner answers yes. J. B. McNamara, you have heretofore been arraigned on this indictment, No. 6939, charging you with the crime of murder, do you plead guilty or not guilty?"

Mr. Davis—"At this time, yes, sir."

Mr. Fredericks—"To this indictment, No. 6939, charging you with the crime of murder, do you plead guilty or not guilty?"

The defendant—"Guilty."

Mr. Fredericks—"Guilty, your honor. Do the court and counsel for the defense wish to take up the other case?"

The court—"I will dispose of this matter and fix the time for sentence, what is the number of the section of the code with respect to sentence?"

Mr. Ford—"1911 of the penal code."

Mr. Fredericks—"The court can make the same order with regard to the other case if you wish to proceed with it at this time."

The court—"I will make the order in this case and then I will take up the other. The court appoints the time for pronouncing the judgment in this case as 10 o'clock on Tuesday, the fifth day of December, 1911."

Mr. Fredericks—"Let me have the papers in the other case. J. J. McNamara, will you stand up, please?"

He arose.

Mr. Fredericks—"J. J. McNamara, you have heretofore been arraigned on indictment number 6955, in which you are charged with the crime of exploding or attempting to explode dynamite, nitroglycerine, etc., in the buildings or near the buildings adjacent to the Llewellyn Iron Works. You have been arraigned on that indictment and entered your plea of not guilty. Do you now wish to withdraw that plea of not guilty?"

Mr. Fredericks—"Do you wish now at this time to plead to the indictment?"

The defendant—"I do."

Mr. Fredericks—"J. J. McNamara, you have heretofore been arraigned on indictment No. 6955. This is the time agreed for you to plead to the same. Do you want to plead guilty or not guilty?"

The defendant—"Guilty."

Mr. Fredericks—"Guilty, your honor."

The court—"Well, I will appoint the time for pronouncing the judgment in this case as 10 o'clock a. m., December 5, 1911, which is next Tuesday."

There was a rush for the enclosure where the attorney sat when court adjourned. A group flocked around District Attorney Fredericks to congratulate him on the way he had worked up his case. He smiled in return—not a smile of exultation, but relief.

"I don't want a pound of flesh," he explained. "I look at this from two viewpoints. As a lawyer, I wanted these men to plead guilty because they were guilty—because the evidence was gathered showed them guilty beyond any doubt. But as a man I want to say that if I can recommend a less severe punishment than death or life imprisonment in any way and at the same time rid union labor of its desire to use violence to obtain its end, I want to do that thing."

Around Attorney Clarence S. Darrow gathered a crowd, too. From him it all had happened and why, Darrow's face was pale. The long wrinkles in his cheeks looked deeper than usual and he talked in a low, husky voice that indicated fatigue.

"It was a hard struggle to bring this about, but it was the best thing that could have happened," he said. "I did the best I could."

Orlie E. McManigal, the confessed dynamite, whose admissions are said to have been a big factor in the McNamaras pleading guilty, will go virtually free if the plans of the state in his behalf do not go wrong.

After court had adjourned last evening, McManigal, the Burns detective, who has been a daily visitor to the cell since the dynamite was exploded here last spring and has always spoken in a friendly way of the prisoner, came upon District Attorney Fredericks in the latter's office.

"There's just one thing I want to ask you, said McManigal to Fredericks, and that is that you do all you can for McManigal."

Fredericks held up his right hand as he answered, "I promise you I'll do all in my power for him. He may have to take a light sentence, but I'll do the best I can."

Later, in McManigal's cell, after the dynamite had gone into the story of the Llewellyn Iron Works explosion last Christmas, McManigal told him privately of what Fredericks had promised. McManigal was greatly affected when he learned that the state had become his friend.

His eyes filled with tears and his voice choked so that he could hardly stammer his thanks.

Before he heard the news McManigal had been apprised of the plans of the McNamaras and had said, with a chuckle, that he was glad to hear of their action, as it confirmed his assertions and he thought the public now would regard him differently.

"I suspected something was doing," said McManigal with a smile as his little black eyes snapped, "when J. B. did not go over to court as early as usual this afternoon. And then when J. J. was taken over I was positive. I could not tell just what time after-ward when the newsboys came around the jail calling out 'McNamaras plead guilty.' Then McManigal came over and told me about the proceedings in court. Of course I was surprised I had not expected them to do it so soon."

"And what's next?" he was asked.

"Oh, I suppose I'll get mine," he answered. "I ought to get something for all that I did. I think I might be given anywhere from one year to life."

He laughed as he suggested his own possible punishment and added in response to a question that he never had been promised anything for what he had done, a statement later confirmed by Detective McManigal, who said that the promise of District Attorney Fredericks was the nearest approach to immunity suggested for McManigal.

these were L. J. Bolton, proprietor of the Jackson Hotel and Charles Wilson, a bystander.

When it was known that some one was seriously hurt, an effort was made to get a physician to the scene. The hotel attaches worked without success and finally the telephone company was advised of the seriousness of the accident and W. J. Devos, on duty at the automatic telephone exchange made a systematic effort to locate a physician. After calling a dozen or more Drs. Knauss and Smith were reached. Dr. Smith responded, but failed to reach the hotel in time.

The girl was placed in Bowers & Bazler's ambulance and a hurry run was made to the City Hospital after every effort to have a doctor come to the Jackson Hotel had failed. Dr. U. K. Essington was called and went at once to the hospital about a half hour after the accident. She had been nearly resuscitated by people at the hotel but was still unconscious and in a very limp condition. The woman was suffering greatly from the water she had inhaled and was in a state of shock.

Dr. Essington and the hospital attendants worked with the girl about a half hour when she began to show signs of reviving. The water was pumped from the lungs and consciousness was not long in returning. Her condition was very satisfactory, she being rational and carried on a conversation with those in the room. She seemed to be suffering no pain and the only injuries visible were some bruises on the legs and some minor scratches about the body, but a careful examination showed that no bones had been broken.

However, the doctor left the hospital for a short time and Miss Williams began to experience difficulty in breathing, the lungs refusing to expand. An hour later she went into a violent convulsion and Dr. Essington was again called. He responded at once and found the girl writhing in unconsciousness. Half an hour later she died without ever coming out of the comatose state.

When the girl was taken to the hotel her face was covered with mud and she had evidently been pinned face forward in the water. It is thought by the attending physician that there were internal injuries to the lungs, as the difficulty from the breathing was probably due to these organs being crushed.

Dr. Essington also attended Jean Kelly who was but slightly injured. She had a number of scratches and bruises but nothing serious and in a few hours had fully recovered from the shock of the accident.

MR. GRIMM'S STORY.

Cliff Grimm, yardmaster for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad company, woke up Saturday morning to find himself a hero in the eyes of the people of Newark. Although well deserving the honor he is too modest to realize that his act was out of the ordinary, and refuses to believe that he did anything any other man with the least bit of nerve would not have done.

Shortly after 8 o'clock Saturday morning an Advocate reporter called at the office of Mr. Grimm, in the B. and O. yards to get his version of the terrible accident that occurred Friday night, and the part you took in rescuing the women from the water."

"Why, I do not know very much about the matter. Better see some one else who knows more about it than I do. I do not want any notoriety about the matter."

"I had quit work about 5:30 o'clock and had started home, but stopped in the baggage room to chat for a moment with George Cross, who was formerly yardmaster for the B. and O. While talking to him I heard a crash and thinking that it was the yard engine which was working at the freight sheds, I ran out of the baggage room and started out to investigate the matter. I had gone but a few feet when I saw an automobile and two men and a woman in the canal, all struggling."

"I jumped into the canal and assisted the two men in getting one of the women out of the water, after which I went back and got the other woman."

"I did not recognize any of them at the time with the exception of Orrie Harrington, but later learned that the woman I had taken out of the water was Miss Ada Williams."

"Did you have any trouble in getting the young woman out of the wreck?"

"Yes, I did. When I reached the automobile I found her fastened under the top of the automobile, which was holding her under the water."

"The woman's head was under the water, and she would have drowned in a minute or two had I not taken her out."

"I hardly know how I rescued her, but I have an indistinct recollection of tearing and pulling at the top of the machine, and then reaching down into the water and pulling the woman out."

"At the time I succeeded in getting her from beneath the top of the machine she was struggling, but appeared to be unconscious."

"I carried her to the shore, where several persons assisted me and we carried her into the Hotel Jackson and endeavored by telephone to get a doctor, but did not succeed."

"We then called Bowers & Bazler's ambulance and the woman was taken to the City Hospital."

"After making sure that everything possible had been done for the woman I went home and changed my clothes for dry ones."

"Through the kindness of Superintendent Irvin the derrick and crew were ordered out, and the automobile was taken out about 8:35 o'clock. When it was taken from the water one of the lights was still burning and it was run to the garage with its own power."

The version of Chauffeur Orrie Harrington regarding the accident is somewhat different from the story told to the Advocate by others. He says the machine approached the turn from Franklin into Canal street under full control.

He says the light fall of snow was not regarded as dangerous but that the sloping pavement at the scene of the accident, caused the heavy machine to skid. The wheels did not slip far, but they came in violent contact with the curbing on the edge of canal bank.

This caused the machine to topple over and roll down the bank. Davis and Harrington were thrown from the machine into the water. They succeeded in getting the Kelley girl out of the machine, but both were so dazed that they could not rescue the second girl and called for the help of those on the bank.

The machine had been slightly out of order some time before the accident, but the driver thought he had succeeded in remedying the trouble. The theory that the steering gear failed to work at the critical moment is not credited by Harrington who holds to the idea that the machine skidded against the curbing.

Harrington says that he picked up the girls in front of the Interurban station. He came out of the cigar store and they were standing in the front of the station and asked him to take them a ride. Davis joined them at this point.

The Kelley girl has been at May Miller's place in Harrison street some time. Miss Williams came here two weeks ago from Zanesville. She claimed that her home was in Atlanta, Ga.

Coroner Wiyelarch viewed the body of Miss Williams at the Criss Bros. & Jones morgue Friday night. Even after death it was possible to force more water from her lungs. Dr. Wiyelarch states that the girl's death was caused by strangulation.
